Minutes.—The following gentlemen were elected officers of Lafayette Lodge No. 14 at the regular meeting on Monday evening, Dec. 10th 1882:

T. O. Wilson, W. M.	H. W. DeLeon, S. W.
W. W. Lockhart, J. W.	W. H. Wilson, Treasurer
H. W. Wilson, Secy.	L. Osborn, Secretary
A. Lamberton, S. D.	A. Randal, A. D.
C. F. Alford, J. W.	C. A. Ward, J. W.

NEW ENGLAND SOCIETY.—A meeting of the members of this society took place Wednesday night at the Temperance Hall, for the purpose of "testing" Honor for the coming year. The following are the names of the gentlemen chosen:

C. F. Maxwell, President.
C. O. Thompson, S. W. Jackson, W. T. Brown, Henry Fuller, John M. Loomis, W. F. Trowell, Free President.

J. C. Hallock, Chicago.
Joe Walker, G. H. Laffa, C. H. Dyer, H. A. Clark, J. S. Bain, and Edward Wright—Managers.

THEATRICAL.—Events over which we had to contend have prevented us from giving more than a passing notice to the entertainments at the Theatre during this week. On Monday night, the new play of "Anna Bliska" was produced, according to announcement, on the occasion of Miss Wrenn's benefit. We have before spoken of this play, as some length, and as it is now remains to express our gratification at the very admirable manner in which it was put upon the stage. To Mr. Wynn we owe Anna Bliska, and Mr. Sully as Therold, could not have been better. The scene in which Therold speaks to Anna of her father's life and fate, of the sacrifice he had made of love to raise her child, of his death in poverty and neglect, and when by coincidence her astonished gaze her mother's minister, was worked up with admirable effect, and told upon the audience with unquestionable power. Miss Wynn's conception of the character was very correct, and her readings were better. There is a play written with so much honest beauty of diction as almost all of Marston's dramas are, this is in fact our comment.

On Wednesday night was Mr. Sully's first benefit in Chicago. The house was a flattering one in point of numbers, particularly when compared with the audience of the previous evening. Mr. Sully has been the subject of a great deal of the testimonial thus given him, and we are proud and apprehensive in which he has won high hearts of our citizens. He acquitted himself on this occasion with even more success than on his first.

His Dr. Andrew McIntire was a faithful piece of saying: It confirmed us in the opinion which we have always entertained, that Mr. Kelley possesses powers which will enable him to become a most excellent legislator. The only thing which can be urged in objection to this is in the want of the phlegma which is composed to form an essential ingredient in the constitution of a successful legislator, but time may remedy this, and nature and study has most certainly amply qualified him in every other respect. His phlegma, in the "Faint Heart" was trifling.— We are glad to admit his readiness to do more and more upon each representation which we vote of. Throughout the evening Mr. Kelley was frequently quoted with applause and at the last fall of the curtain was saluted with a shout. He returned his thanks for this honor in a most appropriate and most speech.

Mr. Myers played much better than we had anticipated. Some of his plays were excellent. The "Fast Train" arrived on time like a bullet and made a hit. It is remarkable for the fact that all the domestic powers are men. There are no ladies on board, it being undoubtedly a mail train.

Mrs. Rice's beauty is announced for Saturday night. She will, of course have a house at a home. She always has a house. She is now the "Merry-Window of Windsor" set down for that occasion, with Mrs. Barron (who has consented to play on this evening as Mrs. Ford, and Mrs. Rice as Mrs. —)

CHICAGO CUBES.

We understand that the parties engaged in taking the census of this city under the direction of a committee of the Council have so far completed their work as to be certain that the population reaches nearly to fifty thousand.— Twenty thousand, however, is the number

—We are satisfied!

REMARKS BY HAYMOND.—Haymond's Chemical Illustrations will be exhibited at Tremont Hall this evening, and we are assured it offers one of the most interesting treat for that description, that our citizens have ever had the privilege of enjoying. The pictures are of a character calculated to awaken philosophical notions, and make a deep impression on the mind.—We commend it to the attention of all who admire the life-like illustrations of the painter's pencil.

Next Evening—Mrs. Sarah Devlin offers some valuable real estate at public auction to-day, Friday, at 5 o'clock the advertising agent.

POLICE CASE.

Before Judge Rogers. The first two of the dockets yesterday morning, were brought in about fifteen minutes before the court opened, fresh from the scene of their fight. They appeared to their names as follows:

Andrew McManis and Sylvester O'Connell, who were arrested by Constable H. McManis, and engaged in a pitched battle on South Water street, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Andrew presented a horrid sight, his face and head being covered with warm blood—the skin on his nose torn, and a shillelagh and a brick bat. Both are draymen, and the affair was caused by one being discharged from the employ of a grocery man, and the other trying to hit him, and working for less wages. Andrew was fined $5 and Sylvester $3.

Foul Drivings.—Three drunks in the "wild" driving parties, at the New York House, and very noisy. Paul said all true and paid a fine of $2.

John O'Malley was noisy on the sidewalk, and a little "wet up." The Police arrested him to go home, and be quiet; but he preferred to mind his own business, and his independence brought him before the Court, where he was fined $14.

Bridget O'Malley, John's "better half," retained the officers, and wanted to see the sheriff over the head of one of them, while he was endeavoring to arrest her. "Oh, man," Bridget put on the Court, which we will have soon here as the Bridewell, saying to the Judge full sympathy for a "three month, old," which she said was at home, waiting to be let. She went off with a fine of $5. One of the officers had to take her across the public square, as she attempted to run away, while on the route from the Court to the Watch House.

Adolph and Frederick Boring, and Gustav Gahler, were examined for having in their possession a large portion of the contents of a box of goods, belonging to G. D. Robinson, of Blue Island, stolen from a wagon while passing close the Frank Road, a few miles from the city. The goods recovered are worth about $20 and about $25 worth which are missing, the man say they have been coming from the same place. They were arrested in July, in default of bail, is liable to arrest at the next term of the November Court.
